2. What's Happening at MORC Creations during August?

Well, another month done and another product release. This month it was the latest version of My Research Tracker V3. This product has been released in its full version for just $29.99 and in the Lite version for free. Note that the My Researcher Lite version has some restrictions on the number of entries you can enter and the types of entities you can create but otherwise all the functionality is there for you to enjoy.

Development of Universe Builder version 3.0 continues on track with the biggest effort still being on the creation of the new dynamic scripting feature: including the script editor, script compiler and execution engine. More details surrounding this will be released during September, heading towards the November release.

Once again, I would like to highlight the fantastic work our social media consultant Lauren has been doing with all her wonderful work producing all our great new social media postings.
